

Isis breathes the breath of life, of consciousness, the air, and balances the twin poles of water and fire in the immortal blue flame of magical regeneration.

Who is Isis?

Isis is a key figure in the Egyptian mysteries. She is the supreme Goddess of magic. She has agreed to join our pantheon of Dakinis to transmit her frequencies of regeneration. She is the High Priestess. She has the ability to work with all four elements. She wears the horned crown, connecting her with Hathor, Egyptian Goddess of life. In her mythology, her husband Osiris is murdered and dismembered by his brother Set. Isis collects all the pieces of his body and reassembles them, but she is unable to find his phallus, and fashions one out of gold. She fans her wings and breathes the breath of Life into Osiris, who resurrects and unites with her. From their union Horus, the Hawk Headed God is born, representing the dawning of a new golden age.

Location/Sphere of Influence

Egypt/pyramids/Egyptian temples.

Allies

Hawk, sacred cow.

Nature & Description of Dakini

Isis is winged and stands between twin pillars decorated with motifs of corn to represent her aspect as Goddess of fertility and her power to manifest on the earth plane. She stands between day and night. She is crowned with the horns of Hathor, which cradle the disc of the sun. The Goddess Nut is shown arched between the horns, suggesting that even the Goddess of the Cosmos is supported by Isis.

The star above her head represents the birthing of a new star, a new consciousness, the awakening of the third eye. She has petitioned the Galactic Council for permission for a new star to be born.

Isis is blue like the sky and her body has a petrified form, connecting with the process of mummification.

Before her is the Blue Flame of Immortality. From it rises the regenerative frequency, enclosing an ankh. The ankh represents the power of eternity, the power to bring life out of life. The image of Horus/Ra is shown within.

At the base of the image, a sarcophagus houses the mummy, a homage to the Egyptian formula that used the preserved body as the 'witness' so that connection could be continued with the 'other side'. Osiris arises resurrected to the left, and Golden Horus is seen to the right. The Blue Lotus is there as part of the Mystery rites.

Pyramid energy is also part of the Egyptian magical formula, so the Great Pyramids are shown, along with the Riddle of the Sphinx.

She who weeps. The tears of Isis. Keeper of the blue flame of immortality. She has two arms that transform into the wings of a hawk, which she uses to fan the breath of life and regenerate that which was lost. She is blue in color.

She bears 'the all-seeing eye'.

Hers is the realm of Egyptian mysteries and magic and that is the landscape of her realm. The monuments of Egypt depicted in their golden light body form, and showing the connection of the Temples to the star systems.

Divinatory Meaning

Isis comes to you to bring you the power of regeneration. She is Regeneratrix, the one who can regenerate life through her great magic.

Something needs to be regenerated in your life, new life breathed into it.

If something in your life has fallen apart, what is the missing piece?

What do you need to do, to make, to enable it to come together in a new way?

Isis fashioned a male organ of generation. This holds a key to understanding what is required in the situation in which you find yourself.

Isis opens the portal to occult wisdom and magic. What you are required to do is bring the male principle into the equation, the focused intention, required to manifest anything.

In all creative processes, the male and female elements come together in the moment of inspiration. This is the 'Ah-ha!' moments when a vision/an idea comes into consciousness and we see a way of bringing it into being.

Isis suggests that there is a lost part of your masculinity that needs to be not retrieved, but refashioned.

Whichever gender you are, you have male and female components. A man has an inner woman and the woman an inner man. When we seek partners, it is as if we are looking to find our inner secret self – made manifest and to unite with them. This could explain the sense of oneness we experience when ‘in love’...

This inner partner has been referred to as the anima (feminine aspect or muse of the man) and animus (woman’s inner masculine archetype).

Gender stereotyping has inhibited our ability to embrace all aspects of ourselves and our full potential. Men have not found many places in society to express their feminine side and when a woman’s inner male pops out he can be as intoxicated with power as any patriarch...

The times call for not only the re-emergence of the Divine Feminine, but also a reformation and regeneration of the masculine principle as well.

Isis asks you now to seek the source of your masculine power. This is your active principle, how you get things done.

In Egyptian art, many depictions of Gods and Pharaohs are ‘Ithyphallic’, shown with phallus erect, indicating the physical manifestation of spiritual energy and power, the impassioned male principle.

The feminine needs the masculine to bring focus.

Look into the nature of its energy.

Now fashion for yourself a new kind of male energy, one that supports the full blossoming of both sides of your magical being, masculine and feminine.

What kind of male presence is both strong and sensitive?

In terms of what you wish to ultimately own as being a true reflection of your real nature, is your inner male someone who would use any kind of coercion to ‘get things done’?

Is he someone who needs to grasp and hold onto power?

We do not want to psychologically castrate our men (before Viagra impotence in men was prevalent), but we don’t need ‘more of the same’. Time for the new model. The standards to which men have been trained to conform have been straightjackets for the men themselves as much as they have imposed limitation on the freedom of women.

But that was then and this is now.

Keep those qualities that have lasting value, let go of what no longer serves you.

Time to recreate your inner male in the image of where you want to go rather than where you’ve been.

The tears of Isis fall and wash away all pain and stain, for they fall from the heart of compassion and have great healing powers. They are tears that fall from an All-seeing eye.

The male principle learns to cry. The phallus sheds tears of life.

Remember to temper every magical act with compassion, for that is Pure Magic.

The union of opposites, the joining of the male and female principles to create new life, and all the laws of attraction that accompany it, is the way our planet works.

In the realm of consciousness and magic, similar processes are at work.

Visions, inventions, revelations, the light bulb going off – all these are moments when new unions happen in your brain, when male and female elements in your grey matter make love.

‘Male’ and ‘female’ refer to active and receptive qualities in the field of consciousness. You can’t have ‘bullies’ and ‘victims’ in this arena if you want magic to happen. You need a coming together of sovereign equals to have polarity balance and the potential for fusion.

Isis brings the gift of inner knowing, the dawning of occult wisdom.

She brings the ability to get things done.

She is the one who can hold it all together, keep things in balance and constantly regenerating.

Indications

The use of a pendulum or other divinatory instruments is recommended. Guide your actions by the assistance of these devices.

Practices

1. Step into the blue flame of Isis to be reborn.
Visualize the blue flame of Isis before you, vibrant and eternal. See yourself step into the flame, so that it completely envelops you. Envision a visual array of genetic codes and sacred systems spiraling in the flames, reprogramming your DNA. The blue flame burns away age - i.e. all the memories, hurts and disappointments you carry in your being that make you 'old'. Let them all dissolve in Isis's blue flame, and be regenerated, replacing all the 'negative' imprints with cosmic signatures of limitless potential.
Allow all your 'grey matter', your logical brain, to be bathed in the blue light, all the tired and overworked and overstressed cells of your body to take the ultimate blue fire spa. When you emerge, your whole body vibrates at a new frequency and you emit a subtle blue aura from your regenerated being.
2. Isis has asked you to consider the nature of your own inner male energy and transform it. With the insights you have received from this process, see if there is anyone you know who needs a new way of looking at their masculinity and bring your clear reflection to them. Use the gentleness of your femininity to do this, as Isis spread her wings and fanned them gently, breathing life into Osiris.

NB. Isis also recommends the Ankh meditation given in the Queen of Heaven portal and asks that you refer to it. It came from her and Nefertiti. It is a way of aligning your personal life force with the source of eternal life.

3. Send a special greeting across time and space through Isis:

'Hail to the great spirits of Egypt!
Though the seals of your tombs be broken
Your mysteries remain intact
Your sacred imprint eternal'

Dakini Transmission

I stand between the twin pillars
Of night and day
Life and death
I honor the elements
They collaborate with me
In the great work
Of regeneration
Life out of life

Affirmations

I have the ability to regenerate

I can balance my life

I can recreate myself

As whom I want to be

I am a powerful and magical being

Who regenerates and reintegrates the parts of themselves

As a new blueprint
